Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

John O'Donnell will undoubtedly succeed Michael Davitt from South Mayo. Mayor Daly has been nominated for Parliament from Limerick. He will have the united support of the Labor party. An excursion train was run from Cork to Dublin last Saturday, bringing large numbers to the Parnell anniversary ceremonies.

The death of Michael Gilson caused deep sorrow in Trim. His remains were buried in the family burying ground at Kildalkey.

The Tullamore convention selected Haviland Burke for its Parliamentary candidate, Dr. Fox, the late member, not seeking the honor.

E. McFadden, Nationalist candidate for East Donegal, received 3,112 votes, defeating the Conservative candidate, whose total was 2,660.

William O'Brien publicly offers to withdraw as a Parliamentary candidate for Cork City if Tim Healy will withdraw from North Louth.

Inexpressible grief was felt in Gorey over the death of Catherine, the beloved wife of Garrett Lombard, who died fortified by the rites of the church.

Over 1,500 head of sheep were sold at the fourth great annual sale at Nenagh. The sale was most satisfactory, high prices being obtained all round.

The Sheriffs for the city and county of Dublin received September 25 the writs authorizing the election of members of Parliament for the constituencies within their jurisdiction.

The Lord Mayor of Belfast, Sir Robert McConnell, Bart., received the intelligence that the British Association had accepted the invitation extended by him on behalf of the citizens to hold their annual meeting of 1902 in Belfast.

Our Irish exchanges say the action of the Cork Nationalists in selecting both Maurice Healy and J. C. Blake as the home rule candidates for the representation of that city in Parliament should be sufficient to insure their election.

James Gilhooly was selected for West Cork, Capt. Donelan for East Cork and William Abraham for Northeast Cork. For East Tipperary T. J. Condon was selected, for North Tyrone Sergeant Hemphill and South Wexford Peter French.

At a meeting of the City of Dublin Unionists' Association Sir Henry Cochrane, Maurice Dockrell and Hamilton Drummond were requested to become candidates for College Green, the Harbour and St. Patrick's Parliamentary divisions of the city.

The Parnell anniversary was suitably commemorated last Sunday in Dublin. All sections of Nationalists participated in honoring the memory of the great Irishman. Before proceeding to Glasnevin the procession marched around the foundation stone of the monument now being erected.

At Limerick County Court Judge Adams dismissed the objections made to 1,800 voters on the lists on the ground that they had not paid the poor rates legally due on January 1 last before July 1 in the present year. Judge Adams held that there was no person entitled to receive the rates until after January 13.

An army pensioner named Nicholas Morris, of Thurles, was found dead at his residence. When discovered the man was fully dressed and was lying on his bed. The deceased, who was a Sergeant Major in the army, and who many years ago retired on pension, lived for the past twelve years in a house by himself, since the death of his wife, who also died suddenly.

At a convention of the Nationalists of North Longford held in Granard, John Phillips presiding, P. J. Farrell, of Longford, late manager for West Cavan, was unanimously selected as the Nationalist candidate at the coming election. A resolution was passed regretting the cause of the retirement of Justin McCarthy and expressing the hope that he might be spared to see the crowning triumph of the national cause.

Horace Plunkett delivered an address before the members of the Grand Orange Lodge of Dublin in their hall, Rutland square. He was accorded a respectful hearing. He declared himself as being distinctly in favor of a Catholic university for Ireland. At the conclusion of his remarks the members went into committee and, having discussed the terms of his speech, passed a resolution calling on all Orangemen to support Ball, the opponent of Plunkett, for South County Dublin.

The Munster Feis has come and gone and the effect it created is sure to have a lasting influence. The standard in the various competitions was very high. Specially noticeable and encouraging was the fact that the number of entries for the written competitions was extremely large, numbering one-fourth of the total number of entries. The enormous crowds and the enthusiasm evoked at the Feis are the clearest proofs that the hearts of the people have been stirred, and that the language movement is a truly great one.

The Agricultural Society's show at New Ross was a distinct success, taking into consideration the fact that it was the first held in the prosperous County Wexford town. The society was only inaugurated in the present year and it is less than three months since the idea of holding a show this season was entertained. Indeed it is no exaggeration to say that no one was more surprised than the promoters at the success of the show, not only as regards the entries, but at the manner in which the general public flocked to the grounds.

An unfortunate accident occurred in the townland of Ballyworkan, about two miles from Portadown. A number of persons resident in Laurel Vale were returning home from Portadown on a car and when passing a place commonly known as "Pepper's Trees" it is said the car the passengers were seriously injured and a girl named Catherine Cullen received a wound on the head, from which she died shortly afterward. The accident appears to have been unavoidable and no suspicion attaches to the driver.

Information has reached Wicklow of a serious case of highway robbery at a place called Glenealy, about six miles from there. It appears that a Mrs. Doolin was driving along the road near that place in a cart and was suddenly attacked by three men who jumped out of a ditch, and one catching hold of the donkey's head brought it to a standstill. The other two men immediately pulled Mrs. Doolin out of the cart and ransacked her clothes and took all the money she possessed from her. The men, it is alleged, beat her severely and left her lying in the ditch, where she was found some time after in a semi-conscious state.

A terrible accident, resulting in the death of a fine young man named John McKeogh, of Ballina, occurred at a place near Belleau, about two miles from Nenagh. Young McKeogh, who was only about nineteen years old, was driving into Nenagh accompanied by his uncle, John Hogan. The horse was young and spirited and, becoming frightened by the noise of a steam threshing engine at work in a field adjoining the road, bolted, pitching both men out of the car. The deceased attempted to catch the animal by the head and was struck violently by the point of the shaft of the cart in the stomach, causing such injuries that he died almost immediately.

At a meeting of the priests and people of Woodford at which were present the Rev. P. Costelloe, Rev. T. Madden, J. Roche, M. P., the question of getting a store built at Rossmore was fully discussed. Some time ago the Board of Public Works erected a pier there for the purpose of accommodating the people of Woodford and promoting tariff, but this pier has been rendered useless by the refusal of the Grand Canal Company to allow their boats to deliver goods there or to erect a store. It was resolved that the priests and people of Woodford should insist on having the work commenced and approved of by the Board of Works and the grand jury carried out.

We record with regret the death of Alderman Patrick Condon, one of the best-known citizens of Clonmel. He was the eldest surviving son of Jeremiah Condon, the veteran Trojan of the gallant Old Guard and brother of Alderman Thomas J. Condon, Mayor of Clonmel and Nationalist member of Parliament for East Tipperary. Born in May, 1848, the deceased from his earliest days was an earnest and active worker in the national movement. He distinguished himself with the other members of his family in the memorable Ross, Kilkham and Mitchell elections and suffered a term of imprisonment at that trying period. He was also a prominent member of the organizing committees appointed in connection with the receptions accorded to Sergeant McCarthy, to Parnell, Michael Davitt and John Dillon and worked indefatigably at the election of the latter for Tipperary county.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Division 3 meets Wednesday night.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Milwaukee had an enjoyable informal dancing party last Friday night.

The Hibernians fair at Anaconda, Mont., opened Tuesday evening. The order has taken the lead in that State.

Will McGrath made a big hit at the social session Wednesday evening. His whistling and singing surprised all present.

Louis Perranda has resigned as Secretary of Division 1. This was because of his removal to Tennessee, where he has secured a good position.

The Kentucky Irish American proposes the formation of a Ladies' Auxiliary representing all the local divisions. They will be benefited thereby.

No Hibernian function would be complete without Dave Reilly and his "Irish Jubilee," as was demonstrated by the hearty encores he received Wednesday night.

Ex-State President John W. O'Hara has returned to his home in Peru, Ind., after a pleasant visit with Bernard Coll in Jeffersonville and John Lyons and Pat Kennedy in New Albany.

There were many visitors at the meeting of Division 4 Wednesday night. Short but interesting talks were made by Presidents Keenan and Meehan and State Secretary Coleman and David O'Connell.

Forty names have been secured for the new Ladies' Auxiliary which will be instituted by County President Victory in Providence tomorrow evening. State President Quinn and State President Mrs. Kennedy will be present at the exercises.

Division 1 has extended a special invitation to all Hibernians to be its guests October 23. Upon that occasion Newton G. Rogers, prominent member of the Louisville bar, will read an interesting and instructive paper, after which there will be a social session.

Division 24 of Worcester, Mass., entertained its friends Tuesday evening with a smoke talk. Edward McMahon presided and John Sullivan was the principal speaker. Those present were delighted with the hospitality dispensed. The speakers made many friends for the order.

The "free doings" after the regular session of Division 4 Wednesday night furnished plenty of amusement for the members and visitors. James Burke sang songs in the Irish language, and James Kenaley and Mike Walsh also rendered two pleasing selections. Young Will Miller also won many friends by his excellent performance.

National Secretary Bree contemplates bringing suit for damages against the Canadian Government. During the past month Secretary Bree sent the various district representatives of the order the minutes of the last national convention. The package for Montreal never reached its destination. Investigation revealed the fact that it was seized by the Canadian officials near the border and burned.

Reports say the Hibernians are fast forging ahead in San Francisco. Since the State convention held in Oakland last May new life and vigorous activity have come into the order. The State executive board, created in that convention, has been at work and showing splendid results. The members of the board have turned their attention chiefly toward augmenting the old divisions and their efforts in that direction have met with marked success. Of late the officers of the various divisions have been kept busy with initiations.

FAMILY RECEIPTS.

Eggs are slightly beaten when they will run from the tines of a fork when picked up. They are not separated.

A Spanish onion minced and added to an omelet batter in the proportion of one teaspoonful for each egg gives a delicious flavor.

Some cooks add a small pinch of carbonate of ammonia to the water when boiling vegetables to prevent odors and preserve color.

Fingers stained with fresh fruit, walnuts, etc., should be dipped in strong tea, rubbed with a nail brush and then washed in warm water.

A cupful is all a cup will hold, leveled with a knife.

To blend seasonings sift them thoroughly together before adding them to mixture.

A few jars of huckleberries come in very handy in the winter for pies and puddings.

When beating eggs for a pudding, add the sugar to them and not to the other ingredients.

A vanilla bean kept in the sugar box imparts a delicious flavor to sugar. The French do this.

To remove the smell of new paint, lay a bunch of hay in the room and sprinkle it with a little chloride of lime. Close the room for several hours.

Equal parts of milk and water, applied with a small sponge, will make the leaves of a palm or rubber plant look like wax and prevent them turning brown.

The addition of a little powdered borax to cold starch tends to give the linen extra stiffness, and a little turpentine put into the boiled starch adds luster.
